

TRAP NEUTER RETURN (TNR)

What are feral cats?

Free roaming. You might call her an alley cat, a barn cat, or a street cat. No matter how you say it, she is a feral cat, living a valued life outside. Because she has not been fixed, she has 3-4 litters a year, eventually forming colonies. Cats make their home wherever they can find food and shelter; most of them avoiding human contact whenever possible. Tomcats prowl for mates, females become pregnant, and the cycle of reproduction continues. TNR works. NO MORE KITTENS! Populations are gradually reduced. The annoying behaviors of mating cats, such as yowling or fighting, stop. The cats are vaccinated against disease, left ear-tipped for ID purposes and are returned to their colony.

HELP YOUR COMMUNITY HELP YOURSELF

Many people are surprised to learn that nationwide more than 4 million cats and dogs are killed every year in shelters. You might think that there is something “wrong” with them- family pets that have been surrendered due to a variety of reasons; puppies from puppy mill or home breeders; kittens born outside to feral cats and adult feral cats brought in by animal control or the public. The result is masses of animals that are euthanized because there is a lack of innovative life saving shelter programs , a lack of progressive animal control services and a lack of education about of TNR services within the community.

Spay-neuter is the only permanent, 100 % effective method of birth control for dogs and cats.

Spaying or neutering your pet is recommended for your animal’s long term health and prevents many nuisance behaviors associated with mating.
